INTRODUCTION

On June 12, 2020, Governor Andrew Cuomo signed Executive Order No. 203 requiring local governments employing police officers, to perform a comprehensive review of current police force deployments, strategies, policies, procedures and practices and adopt a policing reform plan by April 1, 2021. The purpose of this review and reform was to address the particular needs of the communities served by such police agencies and promote community engagement to foster trust, fairness and legitimacy and to address any racial bias and disproportionate policing of communities of color. In issuing this order the Governor acknowledged that there is no "one size fits all" solution. As a result each police agency was asked to engage the community and address the following areas of reform:

- I. What function should the police perform?
- II. Employing smart and effective policing standards and strategies.
- III. Fostering Community-Oriented Leadership, Culture and Accountability.
- IV. Recruiting and Supporting Excellent Personnel.

In accordance with the Governor's order the Sullivan County Sheriff's Office utilized a county wide process to engage the public and solicit input on the four specific topics above. Due to the COVID-19 pandemic with the restrictions on large gatherings, along with the geographical size of Sullivan County, a hybrid process of collaboration was employed. The process involved meeting citizens at different events around the county, interacting with community organizations, veterans groups and elected officials. The Sheriff's Office then held three formal meetings with community stakeholders and followed up with a community survey in both English and Spanish. The results of those interactions were compiled into a list of reform and reinvention priorities that are reflected in this plan.

REVIEW OF SHERIFF'S PATROL

The Sheriff is the chief law enforcement officer of the county and conservator of the peace. In Sullivan County the Sheriff is responsible to run the Jail, serve civil process of the courts and conduct police operations through a patrol division. Unlike a chief of police who reports to a mayor or town supervisor, the Sheriff is elected directly by the people every four years. While he/she is an elected official, the Sheriff does have oversight from the County Legislature, the District Attorney, and the State Attorney General. In extreme cases the Governor can remove a sitting Sheriff.

Members of the Sheriff's Office Patrol Division are classified as police officers pursuant to New York State Criminal Procedure Law section 1.20 subdivision 34 (b), and are therefore covered by the mandates of the Governor's Executive Order No. 203. A review of the Patrol Division and its policies and strategies was conducted as part of the reform and reinvention process. The results are summarized below:

The Sullivan County Sheriff's Office Patrol Division is a full service 24 hour police agency. The Sheriff's Office has jurisdiction in all 15 towns and 6 villages within the County. In the Villages of Liberty, Monticello, Woodridge and the Town of Fallsburg, the Sheriff's Office plays a secondary role as those municipalities have their own police departments.

Under the Administration of Sheriff Michael Schiff, the Sheriff's Patrol has constantly sought to increase its professionalism and efficiency. The Sheriff has instituted the following changes during his tenure:

- Conducted thorough background investigations of all new candidates.
- Instituted psychological exams prior to employment.
- Complete review of existing agency personnel and training.
- Diversity hiring and promotion program.
- Upgraded uniforms and equipment.

• Created an Internal Affairs Division to investigate misconduct and hold Sheriff's personnel accountable. This has resulted in staff that were:

Disciplined Terminated Arrested

• Instituted mandatory in service training to include:

Sensitivity and Community Relations training.
Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) training.
Sexual Harassment Training.
Verbal Judo/De-escalation Training.
Less than Lethal Options.
16 hours – Firearms.
36 hours – General Topics.
80+ hours – Special Assignments.

• Implemented a Community Policing program which included:

Foot patrols in Sullivan County villages and hamlets. School Resource Officer/DARE Program. NYS Sheriff's Summer Camp for underprivileged children. Hispanic Issues Seminar. Immigrant Outreach meetings. Coffee with the Sheriff outreach series. Skate with the Sheriff. Interact with the local clergy and community organizations. Engage with animal rescue organizations

The results of this review were presented in a power point presentation.

REFORM AND REINVENTION PRIORITIES

The Sheriff's Office received much input from the community during the Reform and Reinvention process. While many suggestions directly involve the Sheriff's Office and local community issues, some concerns involve other law enforcement agencies or issues occurring outside of Sullivan County. Some of the stakeholders expressed frustration that this process could not address those concerns. Unfortunately New York is a "home rule" state which gives broad powers to each individual municipality. The Governor's Executive Order contemplates this by ordering each individual municipality with a police force to participate in the reform and reinvention process. The issues identified in this reform plan only pertain to the Sullivan County Sheriff's Office Patrol Division.

Priority areas of concern identified during the collaborative process:

1. Training and resources to deal with subjects who may be in crises, experiencing a mental health or substance abuse emergency.

2. De-escalation training to assist personnel in the use of the minimum amount of force necessary in a given situation.

3. Recruitment, retention and diversity of Sheriff's Office personnel.

- 4. The handling of complaints against Sheriff's Deputies
- 5. Review and update Community Oriented Policing practices and training.
- 6. Participation in a Law Enforcement Accreditation Program.

Plan to address areas of concern:

1. The one resounding theme that was almost universal in every discussion with the public about police reform involving the Sheriff's Office was the proper training and resources to deal with subjects who may be in crises, experiencing a mental health episode or substance abuse emergency. The concern stemmed from the many stories in the news locally and elsewhere about how police officers frequently encounter a person under these circumstances and wind up using force or possibly making an arrest, when other options may be more appropriate. In addition to the opiate crises, much blame can be laid on New York State for the cuts over the past 25 years to the Office of Mental Health (OMH) and the closure of psychiatric treatment centers. This has put police officers on the front line of the mental health crises. While we have a long way to go to restore the appropriate level of funding to treat mental illness, there are steps that can be taken to mitigate the potential for unfortunate consequences in these types of police encounters.

Recommendation: Deputy sheriffs to receive additional training from The State Division of Criminal Justice Services (DCJS). The state has instituted training programs to address situations involving police officers responding to people experiencing drug, alcohol or mental illness crises. These mental health first aid training programs are currently taught to new recruits in the police academy, but should also be presented to the more senior deputies during annual in service training. The Sheriff's Office has personnel that are certified by DCJS to teach these and other classes that are available from a law enforcement catalog. Additionally the Sheriff's Office and the County need to conduct a review of the mental health resources that are available to law enforcement personnel in the field. Aside from the current mobile mental health teams, the county may want to utilize social workers and peer counselors to address the non-volatile calls for service that are frequently assigned to the police.

2. De-escalation training was the second most important topic of concern that was mentioned by the public. While the Sheriff's Office has included some form of de-escalation training over the years, it is a constantly evolving skill. De-escalation techniques cover everything from "verbal judo" to firearm discipline. Many of the incidents that have brought police reform to the forefront were caused by the shooting of unarmed persons. When firearms have not been involved, then other weapons such as tasers, pepper spray or impact weapons have played a role. The experts believe that some of these incidents could have been avoided had the proper de-escalation techniques been utilized.

Recommendation: Deputy sheriffs to receive additional classroom training from DCJS on the updated methods of de-escalation. Deputies will also receive firearms simulator training on the MILO system to include scenarios involving unarmed subjects. The Sheriff will also make this training available to the other police agencies in Sullivan County free of charge.

3. Recruitment, retention and diversity of the Sheriff's Office was the third most common concern that was voiced by the public. Over the last 15 years, the Sheriff's Office has put a lot of effort into recruiting and promoting a diverse and inclusive workforce. The Sheriff's Office has the largest number of women and minorities of any municipal police force in the county. A recent survey by the federal government determined that the Sheriff's Office was the most diverse agency within county government. That being said, the Sheriff's Office must always anticipate turnover in personnel as members retire or transfer. The sheriff's deputies who are part of our Youth Division and are assigned as school resource officers (SROs) are always mentoring our youth and setting the example as role models for potential future police officers. When the civil service test for police officer is scheduled, the Sheriff's Office plays an active role in helping candidates prepare for the exam. Retention remains a problem for the Sheriff's Office though. The Patrol Division loses members from time to time to higher paying police agencies. In recent years those agencies have been Monticello, Port Jervis and the State Police. Between the police academy and field training, a new deputy sheriff takes about a year to come online and be effective.

Recommendation: The County should review the compensation package as it relates to other municipalities and take steps to stem the pattern of transfers to other police agencies. The Sheriff's Office should continue its efforts to recruit a diverse police agency and consider using social media, radio and print advertising when civil service tests are scheduled.

4. The handling of complaints against Sheriff's Deputies was another common concern made by the public. The public, in general, was confident about the agency's ability to address misconduct based on several high profile cases that were reported in the news media over the last 15 years. An Internal Affairs Bureau was established within the Sheriff's Office in 2006 and has investigated cases of misconduct where personnel were disciplined, terminated or arrested. What concerned the members of the public that mentioned this topic was that they were not exactly sure how to initiate a complaint without calling the Sheriff himself, direct. They weren't sure if there was an actual complaint form or if they could email a complaint.

Recommendation: The Chief of Internal Affairs will prepare a standard complaint form to be posted on the Sheriff's page of the official county website. The Sheriff's Office will also post the form on social media. Notices will be posted in public areas on county property listing a phone number and email address to make a formal complaint. The public will also be advised that complaints of misconduct can be made to any supervisor within the Sheriff's Office, the County Manager, Commissioner of Personnel, District Attorney, County Legislature or the County's Human Rights Commission.

5. While the Sheriff's Office has employed a Community Oriented Policing program for some time, the public has suggested that there is room for improvement. The program currently includes public engagement through foot patrols in the various hamlets around the county, public outreach programs including the popular "Coffee with the Sheriff" series, youth programs including the sheriffs' summer camp, DARE/SRO program and Skate with the Sheriff. The program also includes engagement with local community and faith based groups as well as animal rescue organizations.

Recommendation: Review the Community Oriented Policing program and create a comprehensive community policing strategic plan. Upgrade the training to include courses on procedural justice and implicit bias. DCJS offers training modules covering these topics. Include all patrol division members in the training regardless of rank or assignment. Establish metrics to gauge community policing success.

6. A system should be put in place to tie the aforementioned recommendations of reform and reinvention together with the current policies, procedures and goals of the Sheriff's Office. In speaking with members of the public, the theme they suggested would fit the title of what is known as accreditation. An accreditation program would encompass four principal objectives:

- 1. Increase the effectiveness and efficiency of the Sheriff's Office utilizing existing personnel, equipment and facilities.
- 2. Promote increased cooperation and coordination among law enforcement agencies.
- 3. Ensure the appropriate training of Sheriff's Office personnel.
- 4. Promote public confidence in the Sheriff's Office.

Recommendation: The Sheriff's Office Patrol Division will take steps to avail itself of the New York State Law Enforcement Accreditation Program. A member will be assigned to coordinate the accreditation process and present a review to the Sheriff outlining what resources are necessary to participate in this program. The accreditation program will be incorporated into the Sheriff's community policing plan.

Conclusion

Police Reform and Reinvention does not end with the April 1st deadline. It is a continuing process where the Sheriff's Office and community must work together for the improvement of the quality of life in Sullivan County.
